In light of that terrible interview and effective immediately I no longer support the direction of the company nor its leadership. I am withdrawing my support. And given that I, a cofounder of the company, was thrown under the bus in a public manner to stroke Hoan's ego I consider our already breached agreement over with.

You cannot be the CEO of a facial recognition and not believe in facial recognition as a force for good in the world.

This is an overlawyered company with a terrible strategy.

You are cowards who do not deserve to run the company moving forward.
